01 Prologue

Technology is a tool, a human invention. In 1947 the transistor was invented, and with this humble electronic component the Digital Revolution began.

Since then, the world has experienced huge advances on this front in a variety of different ways. The advent of the World Wide Web and first web browser by Tim Berners-Lee in 1990, by design, created a means to connect to and distribute information and media over a network, helping to proliferate the sharing of resources and thereby motion the world into the Information Age as we know it.

The sheer wealth and range of information available via the Internet and the World Wide Web is vast; it is an incredible resource, an invaluable tool for many, and plays an essential role in the education sector and learning experience for students and teachers, alike. The significance of this and the ability for it to directly influence, improve and elevate the lives of people in a profoundly positive way is a testament to the human spirit. But.

When unequipped for change, wherever disparity exists, and where the pace of innovation and advance continues to accelerate, some will be left behind.

That is unacceptable.

'The Internet is a global public good that should be accessible to all and respectful of the rights of others.'

Access to the Internet in Ghana is not readily available or affordable, Information Communication Technology, ICT, literacy rates are low, and the prospects for aspiring Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics, STEM, students are limited. As a result, this impedes Ghana's ability to develop and flourish in this Information Age. These issues need to be addressed and we, Kotek Solutions, believe we should help.

'If knowledge is power, then knowledge shared is power multiplied.' - Robert Noyce

Our core focus is the education sector and all related institutions in Ghana, particularly those we identify as most in need of support and who are most receptive to our mission. We want to highlight where current models, modes and mechanisms are failing, and we want to help support and realise the development and application of an alternative system architecture and design philosophy to increase Information Communication Technology and Internet access, reliability and efficacy across the country.

02 Registration

03 Statements

03.01 Values

The Group shall operate and abide by our core values, which we define as -

- Respect
 - o Mindfulness, humility, honesty, recognition of the intrinsic worth of all people and the value of diversity, and that we are part of a much larger, collective movement;
- Innovation
 - o Bold and fearless creators and problem solvers, aspiring to achieve the highest standards, and with a flair for engineering and delivering practical solutions;
- Sustainability
 - o Self-starters with a broad world view, able to understand that development must meet the needs of the present, without compromising the ability of future generations;
- Equity
 - o Co-operation and solidarity with the excluded, poorest and most affected individuals and groups in society, independent from any religious or political bias or affiliation.

03.02 Slogan

'Thinking beyond borders.'

03.03 Vision

Kotek Solutions is a champion for digital justice, the right to internet access and the freedom to connect and collaborate. We define 'digital justice' as a broad concept that is both working towards and setting out the framework to establish a society that sees technology as a right and not a privilege. It must be -

- Inclusive and accessible;
- Sensitive of context and circumstance;
- Appropriate for the needs of the user;
- Affordable for everyone.

03.04 Mission

Our Group mission is three-fold: we aim to -

- Highlight, explore and fully understand all technical, environmental and socioeconomic limitations to Information Communication Technology access and effectiveness;
- Deliver and support the deployment of Information Communication Technology, Radio Frequency and engineering solutions as part of our 'Education Everywhere' drive;
- Help repatriate, support and galvanise the wealth in human capital to help Ghana support a knowledge society.

01.05 Aims / Objects

Specific aims and objects have been defined in detail, outside of the scope of this document. As a series of general statements, to further our aims and objectives the Group may -

- Identify talent and arrange training for selected Members and beneficiaries in order to upskill and build capacity for the purposes of achieving our aims.
- Arrange meetings with local education authorities and faculty members, conduct surveys and gain feedback in order to better understand and address their needs.
- Deploy educational and educational technology solutions to beneficiaries across sectors, particularly those involved with or connected to Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics, STEM, subjects.

- Research, develop, prototype, workshop and demonstrate Information Communication Technology, Radio Frequency and power systems / engineering resilience to environmental conditions to better serve the end user in every respect.
- Establish a training 'hub' and assist in supporting work placements for STEM students with the requisite interest and qualifications to build their skillset and help them gain experience.
- Acquire, obtain, purchase, record or capture relevant data for the benefits of our studies and the purposes of review and analysis to further refine our knowledge base and better serve our beneficiaries.
- Promote and encourage positive community, corporate and government relationships to avail us to study-specific and outreach opportunities, particularly for those most disconnected.
- Work with similar groups and bodies throughout the world to exchange knowledge, resources and information.
- Attend meetings, forums, seminars, workshops, courses, conferences and any other industry-specific events for the purposes of networking and betterment
- Publicise, promote, advocate, influence and campaign across borders.
- Fundraise and accept contributions, donations, grants, legacies and bequests from public, private and official sources to help fund our activities.
- Subject to any consent required by law, borrow or raise and secure the payment of funds for any purpose, including for the purposes of investment or of raising funds.
- Coordinate, facilitate and manage the implementation of the Groups values, vision, mission, strategy, policies, standards and systems.
- Develop policies for application by the Group and Members.
- Provide support, services and advice to Members.
- Take any action that is lawful, which would help us fulfil our aims.

04 Membership

04.01 Qualification / Criteria

Membership of the Group shall be open to anyone who aligns with our vision, our core values, and who is interested in helping the Group to achieve its aims and objects.
